JOB DESCRIPTION

JOB TITLE	Associate Professor
ACADEMIC PROFILE	Teaching and Research
DEPARTMENT	School of Social and Political Sciences
LOCATION	Lincoln
JOB NUMBER	CSS562	GRADE	9	DATE	March 2021
REPORTS TO	Head of School

CONTEXT

Associate Professors (APs) with an academic profile of Teaching and Research at the University of Lincoln are recognised among their peers as research leaders who have achieved a high standard of scholarship and have a substantial record of on-going research of international quality. Associate Professors will be expected to have an appropriate balance of research and teaching within their portfolio and to evidence potential to progress to a professorial appointment.

Associate Professors are also recognised among their peers as leaders in the development in teaching strategies within their discipline or the scholarship of teaching. They hold a substantial record in curriculum development and leadership and in successful and innovative research led teaching practice.

JOB PURPOSE

An Associate Professor will either undertake a leadership role in research or teaching with the School or engage the University of Lincoln with activities and practitioners beyond the University.

To generate high quality personal research outcomes and outputs, provide leadership in the development of research initiatives, and to contribute to research-related teaching and learning through delivery and curriculum innovation in their subject area.

To contribute to the development and management of the School with involvement in College activities and provide academic leadership over a subject area or range of programmes and/or to provide leadership in an area of research.

KEY RESPONSIBILITIES

Research

An Associate Professor (T&R) enhances and promotes the research culture in the subject area and contributes to the strategic development of research in their School or College, including by:

- Demonstrating a strong international profile within their discipline (e.g. producing international conference papers and invitations as keynote speakers).
- Conducting research of an international standard.
- Publishing (or equivalent) research outputs of internationally excellent quality.
- Have sufficient outputs to be returned in the REF at a high standard inclusive of complex circumstances.
- Developing externally funded research projects and acting as PI on medium-sized research grants.
- Working (possibly with others) on the writing of bids to external funding sources.
- Contributing to research impact by participating in relevant research groups/committees, leading or contributing to impact case studies and engaging with activities that contribute towards the cultivation of an environment of impact.
- Linking their research profile to education and the professional sector as appropriate.
- Developing links with relevant local, national and international organisations with a view to enhancing research in cognate fields.
- Contributing to research development events and coaching and mentoring colleagues in the development of their research profiles.

Teaching and Learning Support

Undertaking teaching at undergraduate and/or postgraduate levels and carrying out all related activities, achieving good sustained levels of student progression and feedback. The range of teaching duties may change from time to time.

Facilitate, develop, lead and support innovations in the teaching activities and curriculum development and delivery of the School and wider University.

Support the design and development of new or existing programmes, advising on ways to enhance the quality of engagement and influence of discipline specific professionals and enrich the student experience with a focus on employability through practitioner or employer led engagement.

Work with others to develop College policy that influences and promotes effective research in all aspects of the student learning experience.

Develop, implement and manage a community of practice to support staff new to teaching within the school to engage in research.

If appropriate, lead a subject area or range of programmes and resolve problems affecting the quality of course delivery and student progress within own areas of responsibility

Liaison and Networking

Work within an extended network or community suitable to their discipline, which can impact positively on the work of the University.

Take a lead role in the application of these networks to enacting the University mission and strategy.

Promote the reputation of the University within the wider higher education community through publications, contributions to conferences and liaison within the relevant subject centre.

Liaise with and develop internal networks, for example by chairing and participating in institutional committees.

Lead, develop and contribute to relevant external networks, professional, national or international bodies such as Higher Education Committees and high level advisory groups.

Monitor external funding opportunities and assist the College and the University in securing external funding.

Interact and collaborate with other internal Schools and Colleges and external institutions and bodies on the establishment of joint projects to enhance the quality of research, teaching and learning.

Team Working

Work with the School management team to contribute to the development and management of the School.

Provide academic leadership within the School over a subject area, a range of courses or programmes and an area of research or significant academic/professional endeavor.

Contribute significantly to the development and running of the School by taking on appropriate coordinating or leadership roles.

Supervise or line manage other staff as appropriate.

Act as mentor or appraiser to designated colleagues, advising on personal development and ensuring that they are meeting the standards required.

Student Support

Act as academic tutor to students as allocated by the Head of School and act as first line contact for them for advice and support on academic matters, ensuring that students are directed to relevant support services when necessary.

Supporting students undertaking doctoral research in their subject and supervising them to completion.

Supervise student projects and placements as appropriate.

Leadership

Associate Professors are expected to lead by example in research and to support the research activities of individuals/research groups in the area in which they are appointed. Candidates will therefore have to evidence their leadership skills relevant to research, as well as their own personal high quality research record. This record should cover such aspects as their research outputs (including publications), research grants and research supervision. The post holder will be expected to maintain and develop their own research at a high level and to be a significant contributor to external research audits.

Citizenship

Contribute to the wider mission and reputation of the University with active involvement in activities contributing to general university life, for example, Open Days, student activities, alumni events, mentoring, personal tutoring, and engagement with student support and delivery of outreach activities such as school visits and local community activities.

Active participation in committees/groups contributing to university life, for example, international engagement, research groups/centres, portfolio development, equality diversity and inclusivity.

Engage in appropriate training programmes in the University, actively follow and promote University policies and participation in the staff appraisal scheme and annual Individual Research Plan (IRP).

Contribution to the future development of the University and support the University's wider social, cultural and economic development of our region, our 'civic' mission with engagement and/or leadership of external partnerships contributing to the civic mission of the University.

In addition to the above, undertake such duties as may reasonably be requested and that are commensurate with the nature and grade of the post.
